(Aspen, CO) – The Aspen Art Fair returns to the iconic Hotel Jerome for its third edition from July 29 – August 1, 2026. Now established as a highlight of Aspen Art Week, the 2026 edition, led by newly-appointed director Kelly Cornell, will present a dynamic roster of new and returning exhibitors and welcome collectors, curators, and art patrons from around the world for an intimate opportunity for discovery and cultural hospitality. Defined by its intimate scale, curatorial focus and embrace of the outdoors, the Aspen Art Fair has become a place for serious collecting and is steadily gaining recognition as a highly anticipated fixture on the international art fair calendar.

For its 2026 edition, the fair will present more than 35 exhibitors who will showcase work in hotel rooms and traditional booths across painting, photography, works on paper, installation, and design. New this year, is a dedicated outdoor sculpture area. Together, the presentation will merge established programs and emerging voices alongside specially-commissioned presentations.

"As the Aspen Art Fair enters its third year, it's incredibly rewarding to see how the fair continues to grow as a vital part of Aspen's cultural conversation and community," said The Aspen Art Fair Co-founder Bob Chase, owner of Aspen's Hexton Gallery and a National Council member of both the Aspen Art Museum and Anderson Ranch Arts Center. "What began as an idea to create a more intimate and thoughtful fair experience has evolved into a meaningful gathering place for artists, galleries, and collectors who value engagement and dialogue in a rare setting of exceptional natural beauty. We're especially excited to welcome Kelly Cornell as Director of the fair this year. Her experience and relationships bring tremendous strength to our team as we continue to evolve."

Cornell adds, "I'm excited to bring my experience at the Dallas Art Fair to Aspen and to connect the collector communities in each city more closely. My focus for 2026 is to strengthen the quality of presentations, support our returning galleries, and introduce new voices, while maintaining the intimate and collaborative spirit and sense of place that defines the Aspen Art Fair."

The Aspen Art Fair's 2026 edition is presented in collaboration with a group of leading cultural partner organizations, including Anderson Ranch Arts Center, Aspen Art Museum, Aspen Chamber Resort Association, Aspen Education Foundation, Aspen Film, Buckhorn Public Arts, Mack Art Foundation, and The Resnick Center for Herbert Bayer Studies. Together, these partners support the fair's programming, artist initiatives, and community engagement. This year, the legacy of photography in Aspen and Herbert Bayer's lasting influence on the city's visual identity will be explored as part of the fair's cultural programming.

The new partnership with the Aspen Education Foundation (AEF) supports the IB Art Program in the Aspen School District. A portion of the fair's ticket proceeds will benefit the organization, and the fair has sponsored an art prize to support young artists. Roaring Fork-based artists Dick Carter and Sabrina Piersol have selected five outstanding students from the High School IB art program to exhibit works in this year's fair.

Returning in 2026, the fair's Art Prize Program will support artists through residencies, acquisitions, and commissions. Anderson Ranch Arts Center will offer its Anderson Ranch Visiting Artist Prize, a one-week residency prize that builds on the Ranch's legacy of hosting world-renowned artists including Catherine Opie, Theaster Gates, Julie Mehretu, Mickalene Thomas, Tom Sachs, Kenny Scharf, and Ed Ruscha. Mack Art Foundation will award an Artist-in-Residency Prize and Buckhorn Public Arts will commission one artist from the fair to create a new public art project in Aspen.

Full programming details will be announced soon.
